Green light for Vosho housing project

The City has reached an agreement with the residents of Vosho informal settlement in Enkanini, Khayelitsha, which could see work begin on a R500 million human settlements project for this area.

Progress has been delayed due to the illegal occupation of parts of the earmarked land, as well as challenges relating to the temporary relocation of people so that sites can be cleared for the project.

Following two meetings in January held between community members, the City and ward councillor Andile Lili, it was agreed that illegally erected, unoccupied structures would be removed to get the development off the ground.

The development site will be cordoned off by the contractor, and a survey of residents legitimately living in the Vosho settlement will be done for the relocation process.

The proposed Enkanini human settlements upgrade is expected to kick off in 2020.

Feeling festive: In December, Cape Town was named the "World's Leading Event and Festival Destination for 2018" at the World Travel Awards in Lisbon, Portugal. Cape Town was up against London (United Kingdom), Sydney (Australia), Shanghai (China), Rio de Janeiro (Brazil), Montreal (Canada), Seoul (South Korea), Guayaquil (Ecuador), Da Nang (Vietnam), Dubai (United Arab Emirates) and Singapore. In 2018, the City's Events Department issued 1 277 event permits and supported 180 events, including the Cape Town Cycle Tour (above).

Living with load-shedding

You can reduce load-shedding pain by planning ahead.

Eskom has resumed load-shedding, and the City encourages residents to plan ahead and ensure that they stay connected, healthy and safe during power outages.

- Communication: Charge your cellphone, laptop, tablet, radio and other devices when power is available.
- Transport: Make sure that your vehicle always has fuel, as most petrol stations cannot pump fuel during outages.
- Cash: Keep some cash on you, as ATMs cannot operate without electricity.
- Security and safety: Check that backup batteries for electric gates, garage doors and security systems will manage load-shedding. Store torches, gas lamps and candles in places where they will be easy to find in the dark.

- Eating: If you do not have a gas stove, prepare meals before outages. Boil water and keep it in thermos flasks for hot drinks. You can also use an insulating cover on teapots, pots and pans to keep drinks and meals warm.
- Medication: Most medication requiring refrigeration can be kept in a closed fridge for several hours without spoiling, but you should check with your doctor or pharmacist if in doubt.
- Traffic lights: Intersections with traffic lights affected by load-shedding should be treated as four-way stops. The motorist who stops first has the right of way.
- Where possible, companies should consider flexible working arrangements so as to reduce traffic during peak hours. Please note that Eskom is the lead authority in this matter.

In the past, the City has been able to reduce the impact of load-shedding in its electricity supply areas through generation capacity from the Steenbras hydro-electric power scheme. This is not possible now, as the Steenbras scheme is undergoing maintenance until May 2019.

The maintenance was specifically planned for this time as electricity usage is lowest early in the year. With the latest round of Eskom load-shedding, the City is unable to assist its customers.

Follow the City on Facebook and Twitter for load-shedding alerts. City load-shedding schedules are on pages 3 and 4, and at www.capetown.gov.za. Eskom customers should see www.loadshedding.eskom.co.za.

- Residents and businesses are encouraged to visit the City's page with electricity-saving tips at www.savingelectricity.org.za.

Informal homes electrified

The City has electrified around 800 homes in informal settlements in Khayelitsha and Strand in the first phases of a large project across several informal settlements.

In February more than 600 homes in RR Section, Khayelitsha, received electricity in the first phase of a project that will see 3 000 dwellings connected to the power grid.

Part of the settlement is on Passenger Rail Agency of South Africa (Prasa) land, while the rest is on City-owned land. The project required relocation of homes.

The City has also installed electricity infrastructure in Pholile A informal settlement in Nomzamo, Strand, in collaboration with the South African National Roads Agency (SANRAL) and the Housing Development Agency (HDA).

The first section of Pholile A, with 198 connections out of a total of 1 737 households, was completed in December.

This is the first of nine informal settlements in the Nomzamo area to be electrified. As the dwellings are on SANRAL-owned land earmarked for the expansion of the N2, this is a temporary electrification project.

Most of the infrastructure will be repurposed when the HDA relocates the relevant beneficiaries.

General valuation roll now available

The new general valuation (GV) roll will be implemented on 1 July 2019, reflecting the market value of some 875 000 properties as at 2 July 2018.

Property owners can view their valuations at www.capetown.gov.za/propertyvaluations.

The GV is used to bill fair rates to property owners. Rates income pays for shared public services, such as roads, streetlights, parks, beaches, area cleansing, libraries, clinics, law enforcement and fire services. The new rates payable will be published on the City's website in April 2019.

Residents who think their property has been incorrectly valued can object:

- directly via the City's e-Services portal on www.capetown.gov.za (from 21 February to 30 April 2019);
- by submitting the objection form available at www.capetown.gov.za/propertyvaluations to valuationobjection@capetown.gov.za (from 21 February -30 April 2019); or
- by visiting one of the City's public inspection and objection venues listed on the City's website (from 21 February to 29 March 2019).

When submitting an objection, it is important to provide a motivation as to why the valuation may be incorrect.

Another clean audit

The City has received its 15th consecutive unqualified audit opinion from the Auditor-General for the 2017/18 financial year. This confirms its strong financial position, despite the effects of the extraordinary drought.

The report does however also include findings regarding supply chain management processes that were not properly complied with in terms of the Municipal Finance Management Act. These mainly relate to contracts that were amended after award without tabling the reasons in Council. All expenditure was fully accounted for and used to deliver services to residents.

These issues are being addressed and remedial measures taken.

Beware of City job scam

Residents should know that the City would never charge job seekers a fee to apply for City vacancies. Job applications to the City are free of charge.

Ignore criminals on social media who urge job seekers to deposit money into a bank account in exchange for City application forms.

We've been listening to your concerns, and have acted

In my first 100 days of office, I went out to our communities and hosted more than 50 public meetings. I particularly wanted to engage with those who believed the City hadn't delivered the required level of services.

Crime and safety were the biggest concern raised, so we've taken steps to help residents feel safer. It's of the utmost importance for residents to feel that they are seen and heard. While the South African Police Service (SAPS) remains the primary protector of our people we, as the City of Cape Town, also have a role to play in making sure our communities feel protected. This is why I've announced a R165 million allocation to deploy 100 additional officers, 50 new security cameras and more than 40 new law enforcement vehicles.

I served as mayor during the 2010 FIFA World Cup, and it remains a very special memory. The success of this event attracted many other major events to Cape Town.

I believe it is this City's hard work at capitalising on the success of 2010 in the past nine years that earned us the fantastic accolade of the "World's Leading Festival and Events Destination" at the 2018 World Travel Awards.

We have also allocated R115 million to clean up areas affected by illegal dumping and a general lack of cleanliness. To support this, I will soon launch a clean-up campaign to mobilise communities to help us by playing their part to keep our beautiful city clean.

We have survived the worst of the water crisis and are grateful to all residents who responded to our call to save every drop they could. We will soon be unveiling a new Water Strategy for a public participation process, so please give us your input. This will allow us to be more resilient to future droughts.

Let us continue to work together to make Cape Town better for all residents.

– Executive Mayor Dan Plato

At the ready, 24/7: This summer, there were fewer fatalities through fire.

A safer summer, thankfully

The City's enforcement and rescue services worked hard over the holidays to ensure public safety. Working with volunteers, the South African Police Service, the National Sea Rescue Institute, SANParks and others, their efforts paid off.

Statistics show a reduction in road deaths over the peak season, fewer drownings, an increase in children registrations at the Identikidz beach stalls, and fewer fires and fire-related deaths.

Collectively, the City's three enforcement agencies arrested 737 suspects on a range of charges, including drunk driving and possession of drugs. Traffic Services arrested 5 056 motorists for outstanding warrants, while another 12 700 warrants were served. Traffic Services' officers also recorded just over 200 000 offences, the bulk of which related to speeding.

On the beaches and in other public spaces, Law Enforcement staff confiscated 9 968 bottles (nearly 6 400 £) of alcohol. Eliminating alcohol from public places means fewer drownings, less anti-social behaviour and fewer vehicle accidents.

The Fire and Rescue Service responded to 2 411 fire calls and 1 126 special service calls. And while there was an increase in residential fires, fewer structures were affected and fewer fatalities recorded.

The Public Emergency Communication Centre's busiest shifts were New Year's Eve and Boxing Day, when staff respectively fielded 1 049 and 962 calls. In December, the centre dealt with 41 209 calls, of which 77% were emergencies.

The City thanks every one of its uniformed staff members who helped make our summer safer.

Proposed Water Strategy - have your say

The proposed Water Strategy outlines how the City aims to provide a reliable, sustainable and affordable water and sanitation service in the future.

A summary and the full draft Water Strategy document are available on www.capetown.gov.za/haveyoursay, at subcouncil offices and at City libraries.

Residents are invited to submit written comments, recommendations or input before 15 March 2019 online at www.capetown.gov.za/haveyoursay or at your nearest subcouncil office.

People who are unable to submit written comments should contact Ismail du Plooy in the Public Participation Unit on 021 400 1184.

KORTLIKS

In sy eerste 100 dae in die amp het uitvoerende burgemeester Dan Plato meer as 50 openbare vergaderings gehou. Die Stad maak werk van die kwessies wat by die vergaderings geopper is, veral dié oor veiligheid en sekuriteit, waarvoor 'n bykomende R165 miljoen toegeken is.

'n Nuwe algemene waardasielys sal op 1 Julie 2019 in werking tree. Eien-domeineers kan hulle waardasies nagaan by www.capetown.gov.za/propertyvaluations.

Die Stad het sy 15de opeenvolgende ongekwalifiseerde oudit van die ouditeur-generaal vir die boekjaar 2017/18 ontvang.

Die Stad se wetstoepassing- en red-dingsdienste was gedurende die vakansie hard aan die werk om die publiek se veiligheid te verseker, en daar was 'n afname in voertuigongelukke, verdrinkings en brandsterftes.

Vandale het sedert die begin van die jaar reeds verskeie Stadsfasiliteite verniel, wat miljoene rande kos om te herstel. Meld vandalisme by die polisie of die wetstoepassingsdepartement aan. Skakel 107 vanaf 'n landlyn of 021 480 7700 vanaf 'n selfoon.

Help protect your facilities

The City is doing its best to safeguard its assets against vandalism and theft, but communities are also urged to take ownership of the facilities and protect them.

Several facilities have already been vandalised since the beginning of the year, costing the City millions in repairs – money that could have been spent elsewhere – and disrupting service delivery.

Libraries, clinics, sports complexes, community centres and parks are particularly vulnerable. Recently, the Seawinds smart park in Manenberg was almost totally destroyed. The R7,6 million community facility was opened on Heritage Day, 24 September, 2017 (pictured).

In August last year, the City announced a major financial injection to help keep community facilities safe from criminals. Some of these initiatives include R10,1 million for security hardening measures such as burglar bars, alarm systems, high-mast lighting, etc.; R20 million for the deployment of facility protection officers, and R9,8 million for the deployment of 312 safety wardens.

These measures are having an effect, but the City cannot do it alone. Report vandalism to the police or Law Enforcement – call 107 from a landline or 021 480 7700 from a cellphone.

Watch out for, and treat, diarrhoea

Diarrhoea, a fairly common ailment during warmer months, is one of the biggest threats to children under 5. An average of 600 to 700 cases of diarrhoea in children under 5 are reported in Cape Town each week.

Symptoms of diarrhoea include loose or watery stools, nausea, vomiting and fever, which can result in dehydration.

Treatment with oral rehydration therapy (ORT) is a simple and cost-effective way to prevent and remedy dehydration.

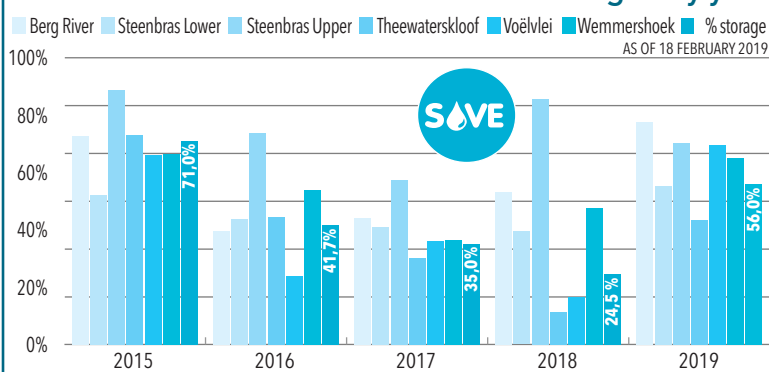

Mix six level teaspoons of sugar and half a level teaspoon of salt in one litre of clean water, and give this solution to a child to prevent dehydration caused by diarrhoea.

Start ORT as soon as a child starts having loose stools. Common symptoms of dehydration in children include passing little urine, a dry mouth, tongue and lips; fewer tears when crying; sunken eyes; weakness, and being irritable or lethargic.

If in doubt, take your child to one of the City's 105 clinics, or call the City's emergency call centre on 107 from a landline or 021 480 7700 from a cellphone.

STAY ONE STEP AHEAD OF LOAD-SHEDDING

Follow the steps below to find out when there will be load-shedding in your area.

HOW LOAD-SHEDDING WORKS

- STEP 1
Know your area number. Use the map to find it or view detailed maps at www.capetown.gov.za/loadshedding.
- STEP 2
Know the load-shedding stage. Go to www.capetown.gov.za, Facebook.com/CityofCT or Twitter.com/CityofCT to find out which stage we are at.

- PLEASE NOTE
- Based on the state of the national power grid, Eskom may implement, change or suspend load-shedding at any time.
 - If load-shedding does not occur in your area as indicated on the schedule overleaf, it does not mean you will be excluded next time.
 - If you are in areas 17-23 or an unshaded area within the City's boundaries, electricity is supplied directly by Eskom. View your schedule at this web address: www.loadshedding.eskom.co.za.
 - If power is not restored at the allocated time, please report this by SMS to 31220.
 - Electricity is needed to power City functions such as water reservoir pumps, sewage and drainage. Please use water sparingly during load-shedding periods.
 - During load-shedding, treat all electric appliances with care, as electricity might be turned on at any time.
 - Immediately report any suspicious behaviour regarding the City's electricity infrastructure – cables, substations, etc – to the City's Public Emergency Communication Centre (PECC) by calling 107 from a landline or 021 480 7700 from a cell-phone.
