Big investment in road upgrades

The City, in partnership with Milner-ton Estates and Garden Cities developers, is investing R140 million in converting Sandown Road and Malibongwe Drive up to the Potsdam interchange into a dual carriageway.

The City will contribute some R66 million to these improvements, while Province will build an on-ramp onto the N7.

The project started in October 2018 and is scheduled to be completed by May 2020.

Apart from the dualling and on-ramp, the project also includes building a bridge over the railway line and moving a sewer pipeline and water main.

These improvements, along with the completion of the link between Malibongwe and Giel Basson drives further south, will relieve congestion in the Blouberg area.

The bulk of the costs are funded from contributions relating to developments in Rivergate, Parklands, Sandown and Sunningdale.

Lighting up Dunoon: Nearly three storeys high, the "Sunrise Girl" mural that adorns the new Dunoon library was created by local artists Skumbuzo Salman, Zola Tsotetsi, Olwethu Notyala, Sipho Mboniswa, Bulela Lesea and twins Sinesipho and Siphosethu Mene.

The cool new Dunoon library

The Dunoon library, which opened in April, is an energy and water-efficient building that took five years to come to fruition and involved local, provincial and national government.

The steel-framed concrete-and-glass building was designed by the City's own architects to maximise usable space while occupying as small a footprint as possible among Dunoon's 60 000 residents.

The library is energy-efficient: The double-skin curtain wall keeps the building cool, while allowing maximum daylight in. All of the lights are LEDs, switched on and off as required by sensors.

The building is also water-wise. There is a two-pipe water system for fresh drinking water and for grey or recycled water. Underground rainwater collection tanks are used to flush the toilets and for irrigation.

One of the important requirements was that the building must accommodate future development. The roof can easily be removed and a staircase added to allow expansion onto a third floor.

In size, the library compares with the Harare library in Khayelitsha, and four of the eight staff members live in Dunoon.

The City's R50,17 billion budget

More funds for safety and security, housing and transport

The draft budget was presented at 27 public meetings and received more than 4 000 comments from residents. After considering the public's concerns, adjustments were made and Executive Mayor Dan Plato tabled a R50,17 billion budget for 2019/20. The operating expenditure is set at R41,8 billion, and the capital budget at R8,3 billion.

The revenue budget is set at R40,9 billion – a 4% increase on the previous budget, and below the consumer price index.

Increases in rates, utilities and service charges have been kept as low as possible, and there is more relief for pensioners.

This budget will put the City back on track as Cape Town starts recovering from the severe drought of the past two years.

To improve safety and security, R535 million capital funding has been allocated to buy more vehicles and equipment, and installing extra closed-circuit television cameras where needed most. There is also a commitment to deploy one dedicated law enforcement officer to fight crime and grime in every ward across the city.

R869 million has been allocated to housing, with several social housing projects in the central city under way. R148,8 million is earmarked for informal settlement upgrades, and R44 million for building early childhood development centres.

More urban regeneration

The Mayoral Urban Regeneration Programme (MURP) is getting a R447 million boost for projects in Manenberg, Mitchells Plain, Bonteheuwel and other communities.

Public transport and roads also get more funds: Over the next three years, Council will spend about R2,9 billion on extending the MyCiTi bus routes between Mitchells Plain and Khayelitsha, and Claremont and Wynberg. R412 million is set aside for these projects this financial year alone.

The City will invest around R114,8 million on new public transport interchanges (PTIs) and refurbishing the ones in Retreat and Wynberg. A new minibus-taxi facility is under way in Dunoon, while work on a new PTI in Somerset West will start soon.

After the damage done during the drought, City parks and public spaces will be restored with new planting and repairs, and an additional R2 million is set aside for more community food gardens.

R72 million has been set aside to meet the City's Expanded Public Works Programme (EPWP) targets, to provide EPWP safety workers to accompany groups of learners to and from school, and to deploy EPWP workers at community-based recycling drop-off facilities.

Report potholes promptly, please

Heavy rainfall and wet conditions cause potholes, and residents should report them as soon as they appear. It may not be practical to do permanent repairs in wet conditions, so temporary repairs may be done at first.

To prepare for winter, the City's 47 road repair teams from 20 depots did inspections, fixed potholes and did general maintenance. They repair an average of 12 200 potholes across town every month.

- Report potholes to the Transport Information Centre toll-free, 24/7, on 080 065 6463, or by e-mail to Transport.Info@capetown.gov.za. Include your name, contact number and pothole location.

Better water testing

The City has extended its Scientific Services facility in Athlone to improve the scope and scale of water quality testing.

New instruments, pictured above, can test for various substances, including organic carbon and potentially harmful metals, including mercury.

Already testing around 57 000 water samples each year, the City now has the means to test water quality at levels above those set by national legislation.

The City's Scientific Services laboratory, established in the 1920s, is a nationally accredited testing facility. It has contributed significantly to the City's excellent Blue Drop and Green Drop water and wastewater ratings.

Prepaid electricity sales

From 1 July 2019, prepaid electricity tokens will no longer be available via the City's e-Services portal.

To buy electricity via cellphone or online, residents should register on one of the following websites: Electricity.co.za, Prepaid24.co.za, Power24.co.za, EasyPay.co.za, ibuy.co.za or Ontecenergy.co.za.

Prepaid electricity can also be bought at many vendors, including supermarkets, pharmacies, service stations, banks and ATMs.

We are listening to you, and responding to your needs

The City's annual budget is a dynamic one, having taken into account the needs of our residents and considered more than 4 000 comments. The budget was presented and discussed at 27 public meetings, and I am confident that this budget will set the City back on track following the drought.

One of the deliverables in the budget I am most pleased about is the commitment to deploy one law enforcement officer in every ward across this city!

Our councillors will work closely with those law enforcement officers in our fight against crime and grime. I am not done with the "Keep Cape Town Clean" campaign, and I will continue to get my hands dirty removing litter from our areas.

Our officials do this daily, but I want to draw residents' attention to their role, because we cannot do it alone. That is why our motto is "Making progress possible. Together." We need you to work with us.

I have taken note of concerns about the state of our parks. These complaints have not fallen on deaf ears.

We are an accountable administration, which is why I am excited about the plan that the Mayoral Committee member for Community Services and Health, Dr Zahid Badroodien, has to get our parks back on track. New trees and greenery will be planted, and fences and lights repaired, or installed where there aren't any.

Our social package of nearly R3 billion will assist the poorest and most vulnerable. This includes a budget allocation for free services, rates rebates and indigent relief. We are widening the scope so that more of our residents can benefit from rates rebates and indigent relief, because we want to provide assistance to those residents in need.

My door stands open to any resident, so if you don't see me at a community meeting soon and there is something you want to raise, please get in touch!

- Executive Mayor Dan Plato

Stop vandalism and theft

Between October 2018 and March 2019, there were approximately 70 instances of electricity vandalism, costing the City millions in repairs and replacements.

Vandalism and theft of critical electrical infrastructure affects the lives of residents, and the only way to stamp this out is for residents to work with the City to bring the criminals to book.

The City is calling on residents to be anti-vandalism and theft ambassadors in their neighbourhoods, and to report the perpetrators. In most cases, the perpetrators are known to residents, as they are from the same neighbourhoods.

To encourage this, the City offers a reward of R5 000 to anyone who provides information that leads to an arrest or the confiscation or handing-in of stolen or illegal goods.

This reward is also applicable to information leading to the arrest of people vandalising, damaging or stealing electrical infrastructure or installing illegal connections.

In terms of the Criminal Matters Amendment Act 18 of 2015, the minimum sentence for vandalism or theft of infrastructure is three years' imprisonment, and the maximum 30 years.

- Report electricity and metal theft and vandalism or give tip-offs to the City's call centre on 0860 103 089, via City Connect on www.capetown.gov.za, or to the Metal Theft Unit control room on 0800 222 771.

Platinum status for City clinics

Seven City clinics have been awarded platinum status in terms of the national Ideal Clinic programme. They are the Kuils River, Wesbank, Eerste River, Kuyasa, Adriaanse, Valhalla Park and Kasselsvlei clinics.

The Ideal Clinic programme is an initiative by the national Department of Health, aimed at improving the quality of primary healthcare at public-sector clinics.

An ideal clinic has good infrastructure, adequate staff and resources (medicine and supplies), good administrative processes and sufficient bulk supplies. It uses applicable policies, protocols and guidelines to ensure the provision of quality health services.

To achieve platinum status, a clinic must meet 90% of the requirements that affect direct service delivery and quality of clinical care to patients.

These include availability of certain medicines, temperature control and cold chain procedures for vaccines and medicine rooms, as well as functional equipment for resuscitation and other emergencies.

City's Water Strategy has been approved

Council has approved its Water Strategy, which will help ensure that Cape Town becomes more resilient to droughts.

The Water Strategy builds on the lessons learnt, and is the product of extensive consultation with a range of local and international water experts.

The strategy takes into account the complex relationships between water, people, the economy and the environment. It sets out commitments to reducing demand and wastage, and increasing available capacity from non-dam sources by more than 300 million litres per day over the next ten years.

The Water Strategy is available on the City's website at www.capetown.gov.za.

THINK WATER

Heavy lifting: The Fire and Rescue Service's new R7,7 million Iveco Trakker 8x4 heavy-duty rescue recovery vehicle has a Fassi F660 crane with a lift capacity of 56,8 m and a maximum reach of 30,4 m. It also has two Waldon 30-ton hydraulic winches, each with a 60 m cable.

Ready for winter?

The South African Weather Service forecasts an above-average rainfall for Cape Town this winter. That's great news for the water supply and agriculture, but can also mean disruption in urban areas due to flooding.

The City's Winter Preparedness Plan includes preventative measures ahead of the rain, and swift reaction to any problems. Some of the measures include the following:

- Monitoring at-risk informal settlements - currently 29 in Khayelitsha, Philippi, Gugulethu, Klipheuwel and Strand
- Moving residents to higher ground or implementing flood mitigation measures
- Removing invasive plants along rivers
- Cleaning critical stormwater infrastructure in high flood-risk areas
- An agreement with the South African Social Security Agency to provide aid to residents in distress

Last year, the City's Disaster Risk Management Centre responded to 377 flood incidents that affected 7 435 people.

Residents can help by reporting illegal dumping, which increases the risk of sewerage and stormwater system blockages and overflows, and also costs a great deal of money to clean.

By cleaning gutters, pruning trees and clearing waterways in and around homes, residents can reduce the risk of flooding.

Report problems to these numbers:

- Flooding, blocked drains and service disruptions: 0860 103 089
- Burst or leaking water mains, faulty and leaking water meters, blocked and overflowing sewers: Send an SMS to 31373
- Electricity faults: Send an SMS to 31220
- Life-threatening emergencies: 107 from a landline or 021 480 7700.

The City's budget at a glance

Where the income for the R50,17 billion budget comes from, and how it is spent

The budget for the 2019/20 municipal financial year, which runs from July to June, is made up of an operating budget and a capital budget.

The operating budget of R41,78 billion is dedicated to day-to-day operations, which include the provision of services such as health, transport and roads, libraries, parks, early childhood development, policing, traffic management, water, electricity and refuse removal.

The capital budget of R8,39 billion is dedicated to the provision of new infrastructure projects and the renewal or capital maintenance of existing assets. Some key capital projects are listed in the table below.

The City's income comes mainly from property rates, service charges, government grants and investments.

A social package of nearly R3 billion has been allocated to assist qualifying poor and vulnerable residents with rebates and free basic services, such as electricity, refuse removal, water and sanitation (see panel alongside).

Big budget: Key projects in the North area include the Dunoon taxi rank, electrical infrastructure upgrades and major roadworks.

To help fund the City's work, service tariffs are charged. The City has done its best to keep the increases as low as possible. In brief, the tariffs are as follows:

- The increase in water and sanitation tariffs has been lowered by subsidising costs to the tune of R200 million from the equitable share allocation. The increase will be 9%, which amounts to R1,23 more per 1 000 litres of water.
- No increase in the fixed charge for water
- A controlled increase of 8,88% in the electricity tariff (compared to the 15,63% increase in the tariff that the City pays to Eskom for bulk electricity supply). Approximately 65% of the tariff cost is for buying bulk electricity from Eskom.

- An increase of 5% for refuse removal services, down from 5,7% last year

There will be no rates payable for residential properties on the first R300 000 of the property's value (R200 000 previously).

- For more information, visit www.capetown.gov.za/budget.

About rebates and other forms of financial relief

The City's budget includes a R2,97 billion social package that provides relief to low-income households. The main forms of relief are as follows:

- Water: 10,5 kℓ per month per indigent household, free of charge
- Sanitation: 7,35 kℓ per month per indigent household, free of charge
- Electricity: Each household with a municipal property value of less than or equal to R400 000 and a prepaid meter receives 60 kWh free electricity a month if they normally buy less than 250 kWh per month on average over a 12-month period. If they normally buy 250-450 kWh per month over a 12-month period, they receive 25 kWh free electricity.
- Waste removal: Consumers who earn below R6 000 and are registered on the indigent register, and consumers whose properties are valued at less than R500 000, receive rebates between 0% and 100% on the first 240 ℓ container. Customers living in Council-owned housing schemes earning R4 500 or less will receive a 100% rebate.

KEY BUDGET FIGURES

Operating budget: R41,78 bn

The operating budget is spent on day-to-day operations, including the provision of utilities and services.

Capital budget: R8,39 bn

The capital budget is spent on the provision of new infrastructure and the renewal of existing assets.

Allocation of rates income

How rates income is allocated, by directorate

Key capital projects

The City's biggest capital project in the northern area of the metro is capacity extension at Wesfleur wastewater treatment works. The Potsdam wastewater treatment works is also being upgraded.

Investment in bulk infrastructure is critical and will include replacement of electrical infrastructure and the installation of new equipment, as well as new bulk water and solid waste management infrastructure.

Other significant capital projects include housing on the site of the old Conradie hospital and development of the Dunoon taxi terminus.

There will be extensive upgrades to Sandown Road, and links to the N7.

Die Stad se begroting vir die boekjaar 2019/20 is R50,17 miljard.

Die bedryfsbegroting van R41,78 miljard word gebruik vir daaglikse bedrywighede, waaronder die lewering van dienste soos gesondheid, vervoer en paaie, biblioteke, parke, vroeëkindontwikkeling, polisieëring, verkeersbestuur, water, elektrisiteit en vuilisverwydering.

Die kapitaalbegroting van R8,39 miljard is bestem vir die voorsiening van nuwe infrastruktuur en die vernuwing of kapitaalinstandhouding van bestaande bates.

Inkomste kom hoofsaaklik uit eiendomsbelasting, diensheffings, staatstoelaes en beleggings.

Die Stad het sy bes gedoen om tariefstygings te beperk. Die watertariefstyging is 9%, vuilisverwydering styg met 5%, en die toename in die elektrisi-teitstarief is 8,88% (vergeleke met die styging van 15,63% in die tarief vir grootmaatkragvoorsiening wat die Stad aan Eskom moet betaal).

’n Maatskaplike steunpakket van bykans R3 miljard is toegeken om kwalifiserende arm en kwesbare inwoners met kortings en gratis basiese dienste soos elektrisiteit, vuilisverwydering, water en sanitasie by te staan.

Apply for indigent rates relief

Applying for indigent support could result in you receiving rebates (discounts) on certain City services.

Whether you apply for indigent support or indigent rates relief depends on your monthly household income. If you earn R4 500 or less a month, you qualify for 100% rates relief. If you earn between R4 500 and R6 000, you may qualify for between 25% and 75% indigent rates relief.

You may qualify as indigent if:

- you own just one property, and are the full-time occupant;
- you struggle to pay your municipal account;
- you are a child who lives in the home of a parent who has died; or
- you received the house in a divorce settlement.

You can apply at your nearest municipal office, or can download the necessary form from the “City Connect > Apply” section of the City's website at www.capetown.gov.za.

You will need to provide supporting documentation, such as ID, affidavits, proof of income and/or grants, and property details.

City officials are available to assist at municipal offices, and the requirements are detailed on the City's website.

Work on 570 new houses begins

The installation of civil engineering services for the City's Maroela South housing development in Kraaifontein is on track, with work on the first houses to start in 2020.

Approximately R63 million has been set aside for this project. It will consist of 395 state-subsidised Breaking New Ground (BNG) houses for qualifying beneficiaries on the City's housing database and 175 gap houses for people who earn between R3 500 to R22 000 a month.

Beneficiaries of the BNG houses are being selected in accordance with the City's Housing Allocation Policy and housing database. This will ensure that housing opportunities are made available in a fair, transparent, systematic and equitable manner.

- Residents can visit the walk-in centre at 50 Wale Street, Cape Town, or visit the City's website for information about housing opportunities.

New pedestrian facilities on the way

Over the next 24 months, the City will build new walkways and rehabilitate the existing pedestrian facilities in the Atlantis and Blouberg areas.

R13,5 million will be spent on repairs and new facilities in Atlantis, R12 million in the Blouberg North area, and R700 000 for work along Birkenhead Drive, Milnerton.

The work includes ramps between roadways and pavements, which will provide easier access to cyclists and persons with special needs.

The work is taking place along Gie Road, Ringwood Road, Humewood Road, Wood Drive, landscaped areas between Sandown and Parklands Main roads, Birkenhead Drive and several roads in Atlantis, including the Atlantis informal trading area.

Atlantis incentives bear fruit

This green-tech special economic zone creates opportunities and jobs.

In June 2018, the Trade and Industry Ministry designated the Atlantis special economic zone (SEZ) for green technology. It has now benefitted from an investment of R680 million by four investors.

There is huge potential in Atlantis due to large tracts of industrial land, a large labour pool, and its strategic location along transport networks.

The City's incentives to attract investment include fast-tracking land use and building plans, reducing electricity tariffs, offering exemption from application fees for land use and building plans and writing off debt for businesses that meet employment targets.

One of the first investments was by Hisense, which launched a R350 million consumer electronics and home appliances plant here in 2013. It can produce over 400 000 refrigerators and televisions a year.

The local community has benefited from job opportunities, with 98% of the 600 employees being sourced from Atlantis and its surrounds.

From 2013 up until June 2018, 132 financial incentives worth R73,7 million and 1 658 non-financial incentives were taken up by eligible companies. Thousands of jobs have been retained and new jobs created.

Atlantis rising. In 2017, Hisense produced its millionth television and millionth fridge.

Two further investors are in advanced stages of negotiation with the City, and R1,8 billion in investment is anticipated before 2022, creating about 1 200 direct jobs.

The Western Cape is home to 60% of the country's green project developers, and two-thirds of South Africa's green manufacturing happens in this province. The SEZ is also an excellent example of the power of partner-

A real threat: Please look out for, and report, shot-hole borer beetles.

Invasive beetles big threat to trees

In April, the City removed and destroyed sweetgum and London plane trees along Oldenland Road, Somerset West, after residents reported the trees had been infested with the highly invasive polyphagous shot-hole borer beetle (PSBH).

The beetle attacks more than 300 tree species, including oak, plane trees, maples and willows. Thousands of trees in Johannesburg, Durban, Pietermaritzburg, George and Knysna have been infected.

The tiny beetles are too small to detect easily, but infected trees have exit and entry holes in the bark, surrounded with shotgun-like bruising, 'sugar volcanoes' or wooden powder.

- Residents should report any sightings of shot-hole borer online at www.capetowninvasives.org.za. Give details and the location of the infected tree. Residents can also upload images of the tree.

Holiday activities at City facilities

The City is offering a number of activities during the winter school holiday to ensure children of all ages are well occupied and stimulated.

A diverse range of indoor and outdoor activities are on offer at the City's recreational hubs. These are organised by Recreation and Parks.

Activities include various sports, arts and crafts workshops, board games, singing, dancing, face-painting, movies and museum visits. These activities will mostly be presented between 09:00 and 16:00, but some will run until 17:00.

Educational programmes focusing on anti-bullying, child safety and substance abuse will also be presented.

Library and Information Services also has a lot on offer at its 102 libraries. In addition to the usual selection of books and audio-visual materials on offer, children can enjoy puppet shows, arts and crafts, informative talks and talent shows.

- For more information on the programmes, see www.capetown.gov.za/holidayprogrammes.

Cape Town to host Netball World Cup

Cape Town won the bid to host the 2023 Netball World Cup. The South African bid team, consisting of the City, Netball SA, Province and National Government, submitted its bid to host the event in Singapore last year.

With its track record as a leading festival and event destination, Cape Town is well placed to make the Netball World Cup, the largest women's sporting event in the world, a success.

Apart from the direct economic impact through visitor and organiser spend, there is also the spin-off of job creation during and after events, and the increased spend at Cape Town's many famous attractions.

Building plan e-filing

From 1 July 2019, the City will accept only online submissions of building plan and land use applications via its e-Services portal. Currently, 67% of building plan applications and 55% of land use applications are submitted electronically through e-Services.

Each district planning office has a workstation and officials to assist residents in registering for e-services and submitting applications.
